

March 8, 2021

Facebook: <https://www.facebook.com/McGill-University-School-of-Social-Work-355313234829645/>

Instagram: <https://www.instagram.com/mcgillsocialwork/>

\(Click here for FAQs and SSW Bulletin archive\)

Contents:

1. Lessons Learned in Decolonization: Critical Reflections at Sunset
2. Field Updates
3. McGill Health and Social Services Career Fair
4. Lighting the fire: Social work and Indigenous Land and Water Sovereignty - CASWE
5. CPA Traumatic Stress Section Award for Excellence for Prof. Delphine Collin education." Let us come together as we near the ending of the 2020-2021 school year and reflect on this

Further details and updates can be found here:

<https://www.mcgill.ca/caps/students/services/careerfairs#Health>

A

12. Call for Paper - Belonging: Canadian Imaginings, Boundaries, Transformations

Ideas of belonging are pervasive in constituting the world around us. They operate and are articulated in all aspects of society, from the halls of government, to neighbourhoods and workplaces, to art and literature and beyond. Understandings of belonging are also dynamic, and often contested, unstable and divergent. In their imaginings, the boundaries they erect, and the transformation they provoke, belongings have the capacity to both include and exclude, to liberate and oppress.

This interdisciplinary, bilingual workshop hosted by the McGill Institute for the Study of Canada seeks to bring together Quebec-based graduate students in the humanities and social sciences whose Master's or PhD projects address the theme of belonging as it relates to Canada and its national, subnational, and transnational spaces. On May 12th, 2021, students from diverse perspectives and deploying a range of methodologies will have the opportunity to present and discuss their work with faculty and peers with the purpose of enriching and sharpening our understandings through interdisciplinary exchange, and of advancing graduate students' progress in their research.

Please include in your application: a completed online submission form, the title and a 150-word abstract of your paper. The deadline for submissions will be March 19th, 2021. Please send all applications and any inquiries via email to misc.iecm@mcgill.ca.

13. Jobs and Volunteering

Please visit the website for your most up-to-date information on employment and volunteer opportunities.