In accord with McGill University's Charter of Students' Rights, students in this course have the right to submit in English or in French any written work that is to be graded.

Conformément à la Charte des droits de l'étudiant de l'Université McGill, chaque étudiant a le droit de soumettre en français ou en anglais tout travail écrit devant être noté (sauf dans le cas des cours dont l'un des objets est la maîtrise d'une langue).

Late Submission Policy For each day that an assignment is late, the grade will be lowered by half a grade (e.g., if the initial grade is a B- and you submit the assignme

I also expect you to do a bit of additional research in order to answer this question as there are certainly a number of other scholars who have weighed in on this question (i.e., incorporate at least additional two scholarly works).

Due Tuesday, December 12, by midnight ((submit via via myCourses 'Assignments' link).

"Taking Stock of Shock"

Mitchell Orenstein and Kristen Ghodsee's 2021 book, Taking Stock of Shock: Social Consequences of the 1989 Revolutions (New York: Oxford University Press) considers, from various perspectives, how the demise of Community party rule in Eastern Europe can be variably understood as a success and/or failure. You will be divided into four groups. Each group will be responsible for 'teaching' the content of one of the book's four parts to the class, during weeks 11 and 12. Each group will have 30 minutes of teaching time and 10 minutes for Q & A. (Note: you may also find this presentation by the authors given at the University of Cologne in December 2021 interesting
