7.2 External Postdoctoral Fellowships

implementation of cultural agreements with the Government of Canada, the governments of Chile, Colombia, Germany, Korea, Mexico, the Philippines, and Russia will offer awards to Canadian graduate students tenable in 2011-2012. These awards have been combined to form the Foreign Government Awards (FGA) Program, which is administered by the CBIE. The governments of Italy, Japan, the Netherlands and Spain also offer awards to Canadian students. However, the embassies of these countries in Canada are responsible for the administration of their scholarships.

Eligibility: A common condition is that the applicant be a Canadian citizen and have completed a first degree.

Value: Although all of the awards are similar in nature, the value of each award is determined by the offering country. Most awards cover travel to and from the host country, tuition and registration fees, and a monthly living allowance. Several awards also cover books, mandatory health and accident insurance and various other allowances
