As a rule, no more than one-third of the coursework (excluding thesis, project, stage, or internship) of a McGill master's degree can be completed elsewhere. For example, courses taken before admission to the McGill degree, or courses taken through a transfer arrangement, are not counted toward the one-third rule. Courses completed at McGill prior to admission to the McGill master's degree were not used to complete the one-third rule as described above. These would be entered as exemptions when the student's record is processed.

Normally, if courses completed elsewhere were not used to complete a degree, exemptions may be granted with respect to those courses. Exemptions are granted for graduate course(s) at McGill. No double counting is allowed unless, exceptionally, the total number of credits exceeds the overall credit requirement greater than 45 credits. In other words, instances where the total number of credits exceeds the minimum of 45 credits for a McGill master's degree. The one-third rule continues to apply.

12 M.B.A. Program

About the Master of Business Administration (M.B.A.)

Students studying on a full-time basis typically complete this 57-credit program in two years and must complete it within three years; part-time students typically complete this program in three years and must complete it within five years.

The first semester of the program features an integrated set of core courses with an emphasis on experiential learning. The remaining three semesters allow the student to specialize in a particular concentration and participate in an international exchange or complete an internship or a practicum, supervised by faculty.

While the standard components of an M.B.A. curriculum (finance, organizational behaviour, strategy, marketing, operations) remain central to this M.B.A. program, they are combined in ways that expose students to the cross-functional realities of managing in, across, and among organizations.

14 Joint Ph.D. in Management Admission Requirements and Application Procedures discipline, (3) a complete command of the research methodologies used in management, and (4) some familiarity with modern theories and methods of the pedagogy of management.

The program consists of three phases: preparation, specialization, and dissertation.

Preparation – Phase I

Before entering the program, the student will have selected the area of specialization from the following areas/options:

- Accounting
- Finance
- Information Systems
- Marketing
- Operations Management
- Organizational Behaviour
- Strategy and Organization
- NSERC CREATE*
- Environment Option

Some students—notably those with strong master's degrees in administration or related disciplines—have a minimum of work in Phase I; others require up to one academic year of work.

Specialization – Phase II

In Phase II, students probe deeply into their chosen area of specialization. With their Advisory Committee, students work out an individual program of study, which takes about 18 months. The phase focuses on a specialization area and a support field. The specialization area could be one of the basic ones listed in Phase I (for example, marketing or operations management), a sub-area within one of these (such as organizational development within organizational behaviour), or an interdisciplinary area that combines two or more of these (such as behaviour aspects of accounting or international marketing).

The support field is selected to help the student develop a foundation of knowledge in a fundamental discipline that underlies the theory in administration. For example, a student in marketing might select psychology, sociology, or statistics. One in management policy might select political science or general systems theory, or perhaps even philosophy. Other choices are possible.

Students officially enter Phase II of the program when their Advisory Committee has been established and, together with the student, formally agrees on a proposal for the work to be done in Phase II. The Phase II Proposal is of accounting or i2Eunting or i2Eunting or 1q 6151 ng oJo4.4 DoctosyseralPhase I (for e

14.5 Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.); Management — Environment

The new Environment Option provides students with an appreciation of the role of science in informing decision-making in the environment sector, and the influence that political, socioeconomic and ethical judgments have. The option also provides a forum whereby graduate students bring their disciplinary perspectives together and enrich each other's learning through structured courses, formal seminars, and informal discussions and networking. Students who have been admitted through their home department or faculty may apply for admission to the option. Option requirements are consistent across academic units. The option is coordinated by the MSE, in partnership with participating academic units.

Thesis

A thesis for the doctoral degree must constitute original scholarship and must be a distinct contribution to knowledge. It must show familiarity with previous work in the field and must demonstrate ability to plan and carry out research, organize results, and defend the approach and conclusions in a scholarly manner. The research presented must meet current standards of the discipline; as well, the thesis must clearly demonstrate how the research advances knowledge in the field.

About the Post-M.B.A. Certificate

The certificate meets the needs of two groups of professional managers:

- 1. managers who graduated from an M.B.A. program several years ago and would like to take a series of courses to update their skills; and
- 2. managers who graduated from an M.B.A. program recently and who would like to broaden the base of their education with a selection of courses that complement their major field of studies.

The certificate may be taken on a full-time or part-time basis.
